The kitchen has granite countertops, a breakfast bar and a nice, open floor plan. The laundry room has both a stacked washer & dryer. The wrap around porch has a great view of the front, back and side of the home. The home has an attached, 2-car garage with additional storage room. The property has mature shade trees and grass on the side of the home. This is an ideal starter, starter-upper or fixer-upper!Q: Get public IP address in NServiceBus with .NET client This seems like an obvious use-case, but searching for how to do this without the MS messaging platform and in-process message pipeline, I've come up with nothing. I'm using NServiceBus 3.0.0.0 (3.0.0 Final). In the architecture, there's a publisher and a subscriber and the publisher publishes messages to the subscriber. This is a web application, with the publisher in a separate process, and the subscriber in another process. My client needs to send an email on a message being received - so it needs to know the public IP address that it's on - so that the email can be sent via a webhook that's associated with that public IP. If NServiceBus provided this out-of-the-box, that'd be great. What do I need to do to hook into the session, or the message stream, or whatever is available? I'm

EDIT: if you are using the "host id" from the website you can use this as well 1. Open the. MAIL LINK will be "mplab.mail.ms" 2. Enter in the mail address .
